And in between,

no time of ease
for graceful fragile growth.

We have no environment for that.

In darkened alleys
we grow
outwardly strong,
inwardly alive
to the unfolding
of life,
with open faces
reaching for the light.

We are the SUNFLOWERS,
children of the light,
seeking in darkness

A TIME for US...

A TIME to LIVE

Here I've been in this big affair of world,
I've broken
from my shell
I've found the world in my toy mess
with nothing doing well
I wish that I was in my shell
But now it's all
a-broken
And now there is no place to hide
My life is done
I've spoken

and a TIME to DIE

A TIME to LAUGH

and a TIME to CRY

The fantasies of childhood
Still linger Blurring into the maturing years
I laugh
But still I cry
I change
And know
I'm changing
I am happy
But again
I cry

A TIME to GIVE

A friend who shares
a stick of gum—
Who's always glad and acting dumb
There's always a way
she'll find to tease
Even if it's simple as a sneeze.

and a TIME to RECEIVE

A TIME to DOUBT and a TIME to BELIEVE

A TIME for YOU

and a TIME for ME

To become whatever we want to be

Roam the widest valley
And find your mountain
there.

Then begin to climb it.
Don't look back —
don't dare.

When you're halfway
to the top,

And there you find
bad weather,

Go with courage to your goal.

Things will be getting better.

When you reach your goal at last

Then you can look back.
Thinking of the others
Traveling your track.

Oh God give me
more knowledge
That mine may be complete
And a little extra
To lay at my brother's feet
Show us how to part Reality from our dreams.
Show us how life really is,
Not just how it seems.

Phase courses update English classes

A breakthrough by the English Department! This year the English Department offered a choice of courses. Except for freshmen, there were no structured classes geared to grade or ability.

Three phases made up the program. The Phase I courses were for those students who had difficulties with basic language skills. The most popular paired courses this year were Greek and Roman Mythology and Vocabulary Development, and Black Literature and the Short Story.

Twentieth Century American Writers and Modern Poetry, and Victorian Age and Nineteenth Century American Writers were offered in Phase II courses. Phase II was set up for those with an understanding of the basic language skills, who wanted to improve them.

The third phase of the program was for those who had an interest in language skills and who had a more mature understanding. Two of the courses offered were the Novel and Creative Writing, and English Grammar and Study Skills for the College-Bound.

The Phase Elective Program excited and interested teachers as well as students. Starting this year, students took a new interest in English. Three new ideas for classes next fall are animal stories, science fiction, and law and man.

SANDY WESTER and Dennis Sipf receive instructions in creative writing, but what about Levinia Wright?

SEVERAL TECH STUDENTS enjoyed Black Literature class this year, especially Betty Adams.

FRESHMEN were still attending regular English classes and Freddie Willis knows the task of reading lab.

Tech ranked highest of city NFL schools

Tech, the highest ranked city high school in the National Forensic League! Mrs. Alice Goodrum coaches a team of 60 members, who sacrifice their Saturdays to compete against thirty different people in three or four rounds a day in order to represent Tech in the finals. That's competition against about 40 students, and of those 40, only five students receive ribbons in their category.

Of course not everyone walks away with a ribbon, but they do receive NFL points for placing in each round. Needless to say, it takes a lot of courage and determination to continue competition against so many students on so many Saturdays. Apparently the students ARE determined, for of the 60 members of the Tech Speech Team, 50 have become National Forensic League members.

LADIES OF THE TOWER listen solemnly as Lady Jane Grey describes her horrible death. Ladies include Anne Boleyn, Lady Arabella Stuart, the Unknown Woman, Queen Mother Elizabeth, Lady Jane, Catherine Howard, Lady Rochford, and the two cleaning women, Maudie and Laurette.

MA KIRBY, played by Carolyn Marshall, visits with her married daughter Beulah, played by Carol Bennett.

DAVID HARWELL, as the Stage Manager, guides the audience to many more "Happy Journeys."

Triple-header scores with fall play audience

"An Evening of One Acts" burst forth on Tech's stage in the Forum Thursday afternoon, November 15, and Friday evening, November 16, as the English Department presented its fall play.

Co-directed by Mrs. Alice C. Goodrum and Mr. David Brunoehler, the three one-act plays took the place of the usual three-act fall play. Over 30 students and teachers were involved in the production.

First on the bill was THE INN OF RETURN, a murder-mystery by Don C. Jones. It concerned the search for the truth about the death of a guest.

THE HAPPY JOURNEY FROM TRENTON TO CAMDEN, by Thornton Wilder, was the second one-act play. Set during the 1910's or 1920's, the play involved the journey of a family to visit a married daughter in another city. In the great tradition of OUR TOWN, the audience was guided by a Stage Manager.

Ghosts of famous women haunted the bloody Tower of London in THE LADIES OF THE TOWER, by Tim Kelly.

Steve Fiddler and John McCray were student directors, and lighting was handled by Roy Trotter and Ron Lair. Make-up and costumes were done by Miss Ellen Eads, Carl Cooper, and Charlotte Alexander. Annette Helms, Jackie Schuh and Valerie McCray were in charge of properties. Charles Alexander and Carl Cooper were responsible for the publicity, and Ann McMillan for refreshments.

ON THE JOURNEY from Trenton to Camden are Carolyn Marshall, Debbie Lewis, Charles Alexander, and Vernon Cox as the Kirby family.

Henreee!!! Henry Aldrich!

America seems to be longing nostalgically for the good old days of old time radio with Baby Snooks, Fibber McGee and Molly, and even Henry Aldrich. So the Drama Club attempted to answer the nostalgic dreams with a delightfully humorous production of WHAT A LIFE by Clifford Goldsmith. Buddy Harris starred as Henry Aldrich, the bumbling teenager who innocently managed to land up to his neck in trouble with the police, school officials, his girl friend and his mother. Kris Weber played the idealistic mother who planned to send her son to Harvard, while Earl Hopkins played the understanding counselor who guided Henry to a vocational school where he could put his artistic talents to good use. Steve Fiddler and Theresa Abernathy played the super sleuths who eventually cleared Henry of the robbery of the school's musical instruments, while Hope Stevenson, Henry's girl friend was on hand to give him moral support. Bob Stafford, a newcomer to the club, played the difficult role of the overburdened principal, and Debra Deatrick, as the school's secretary, took on the tasks of counseling, teaching and general secretarial work. The remaining cast members included Mark Fiddler, Dave Jarrett, Joe Hammontree, Richard Briles, Jill Hassenzahl, Dwight Peavey, Jan Berry and Cindy Kitchens.

Old time radio came to life on stage in the spring of '73. And, if you pardon the pun, what a life!

CAST OF WHAT A LIFE takes a curtain call.

Second musical smash hit!

THERESA ABERNATHY, Hope Stevenson and Steve Fiddler appear calm amid the pandemonium created by Henry.

STUBBORN Iowa folks have yet to meet the charming Professor Harold Hill.

CONSTRUCTION of the pool hall puts River City in a state of frenzy.

In spring of '73, Tech's Music Department presented its second sell-out hit musical, THE MUSIC MAN, starring seniors Tony Jackson as Professor Harold Hill, Anita Huber as Marion the librarian, and an excellent cast of amateur singers, dancers and actors comprised of Tech's music students and pupils of School No. 78.

Here is a brief run-down of the fast moving musical. THE MUSIC MAN is the story of a fast-talking traveling salesman who poses as a music professor endeavoring to save the children from the corruption of the pool hall and bring culture and pride to the stubborn little Iowa town of River City. Hill plans to sell the townspeople instruments and uniforms for an all boys' band. Only Marion Paroo, the librarian and Mayor Shinn, Irving Washington, are a step ahead of the townspeople in realizing the money collected for the band is destined to line the pockets of the crafty professor when he makes a hasty exit from the community. Harold Hill is about to get caught for the first time in his life of fast phony talking, only to find he has talked himself right in love with Miss Paroo who urges him to run from the now violent townspeople. However, Professor Hill, to the surprise of Marion and the mayor, is able to lead the boys' band in an excellent musical number (at least according to the proud parents), and the whole town becomes convinced he is a true Music Man after all!

1974 deadlines met in room 638— Cannon Office

To the passer-by, the Cannon Office might seem like a room full of confusion, but to a staffer on either the yearbook or newspaper . . . We KNOW it is!

Despite last minute deadline worries, the CANNON newspaper managed to come out on time (more or less), and the yearbook you are now holding was finished this year instead of next.

Amid the general bedlam, one might have caught a glimpse of Cannon advisers Cecil Tresslar and Bernice Jones, along with the ever-efficient (well, at least someone is!) assistant Mrs. Betty Rowland. Through their undaunted efforts, along with those of the "Cannon Kiddies", (after all, we deserve some credit!) Tech students were able to enjoy the ARSENAL CANNON despite pandemonium.

Learning is key to social studies

Social Studies is more than just repeating facts and figures about the American Revolution or the Gross National Product. The Tech Social Studies Department, headed by William Siedlecki again this year, tried to acquaint the people at Tech with the economic, historic, and social situations of the people of the world. Learning is the key factor, for no matter how many social studies courses you've taken, you could never learn too much about the people of the world.

It is man's nature to be curious, and what is there better to be curious about than man? As a people, or as an individual, the facets of mankind are never ending.

Continue to learn.

History Club explores restored tower

TIME ticks by before the eyes of young and old alike.

WALLACE POTTER and Kevin Hook try to envision days of old in the Arsenal tower.

With Betsy Sweet as sponsor for the second year, the Tech History Club continued to provide enjoyment and learning to interested students.

Proving most valuable to the group was a trip to the top of the Arsenal Tower early in the year, with Vice-Principal Wallace Potter as guide. Mr. Potter led the group through the tower, explaining and demonstrating the clockworks which were recently restored. The original workings are still in use, however.

Seven stories and several steps upward, the group reached the top of the historic bell tolled the hour for all on Tech campus to hear.

FOR WHOM does the 105 year old, 450 pound bell toll? For everyone on Tech campus . . .

Pupils get taste of own medicine

The Student Action for Education was busy throughout the school year. Mrs. Joan Brown, sponsor of the group, accompanied the students on their many activities.

In the fall, SAE took a field trip to the Noble School, and during January student member David Harwell was a candidate from the Indianapolis area to be Mr. SAE. He was the first Tech student to win this honor.

The group was involved in the Valentines Day Tea with several other groups, and the students planned an Easter Egg hunt for the Children's Guardian Home and the Villa Mission. At the end of the year they planned a picnic at Eagle Creek Park.

Rodney Dangerfield may complain, "I get no respect," but pupils of the Exploratory Teaching class can not make the same claim. In this course students interested in teaching are given a first hand look at actually handling a class situation. The students who participate in this course are sent to neighboring schools for two periods a day for one semester. They receive one credit for the class.

The foreign language clubs give students a chance to get together with friends and do something associated with the languages they are studying, and to increase interest in speaking them.

The members of the French Club sold jewelry and decorated a 'kiosque'—which is a round bulletin board.

The Spanish Club saw many slides of Latin America and Spain to learn about the people and way of life in these countries.

German students decorated a tree for Christmas in one of the corridors of Stuart Hall.

A combined effort of all the foreign language clubs created a display for the display case on the second floor of Stuart Hall.

TRAVELING is a real trip? It's a natural high for foreign language students.

Foreign language pupils stage Fun for Flight Fare

This year the Foreign Language Department presented the first Foreign Language Fun for Flight Fare hoping to send a foreign language student to a country in which his adopted language is spoken. In successive years, France, Germany and Spain will be visited. But no matter which student is chosen or what his destination, his trip will be the net result of the combined efforts of all students and instructors in the foreign language department.

What is FLFFFF? It may be something different next year, but on December 7, 1973 the department presented a variety of satirical spoofs on stereotyping, television programs, commercials and even Watergate. What talent! What unselfishness! What a Foreign Language Department!

More teachers, classes sum up math year

Numbers weren't the only things that counted this year in Tech's Math Department. Quality was just as important as quantity, and with new teachers, improved course offerings, and the continuation of established programs, the department had a most successful year.

The size of the department grew with the addition of two new teachers, raising the total number of instructors to 20. All teachers faced the challenge of teaching more students than ever before, as student enrollment was considerably higher than last year.

In course offerings, "Geometry X" was introduced to Tech's list of mathematics course offerings. In only one way different from regular geometry classes, Geometry X did not stress the proving of theories and theorems, allowing students to concentrate more on pure geometry. Classes again offered this year were basic math, general math, algebra, geometry, probability and statistics, and unified math.

Programs continued from last year included the awarding of certificates for A's earned during the six weeks and during the semester. The idea of using books only during class periods was also continued in freshmen classes, and in these classes homework was done on prepared sheets.

Mathematics, whether studied in basic math, geometry, or probability and statistics, is becoming more and more important in today's world. The successful programs in the Math Department provided Tech students a head start on that world.

"HERE'S HOW," explains math teacher Mrs. Esther Dass.

DEWAYNE MASON demonstrates how easy geometry really is.

Deeper awareness goal of Biology Department

Fuel shortages, overpopulation, feeding the masses—these are only a few problems facing the people of today.

Tech's Biology Department's objective is to teach students about the world, living things around us, and how we are affected by them.

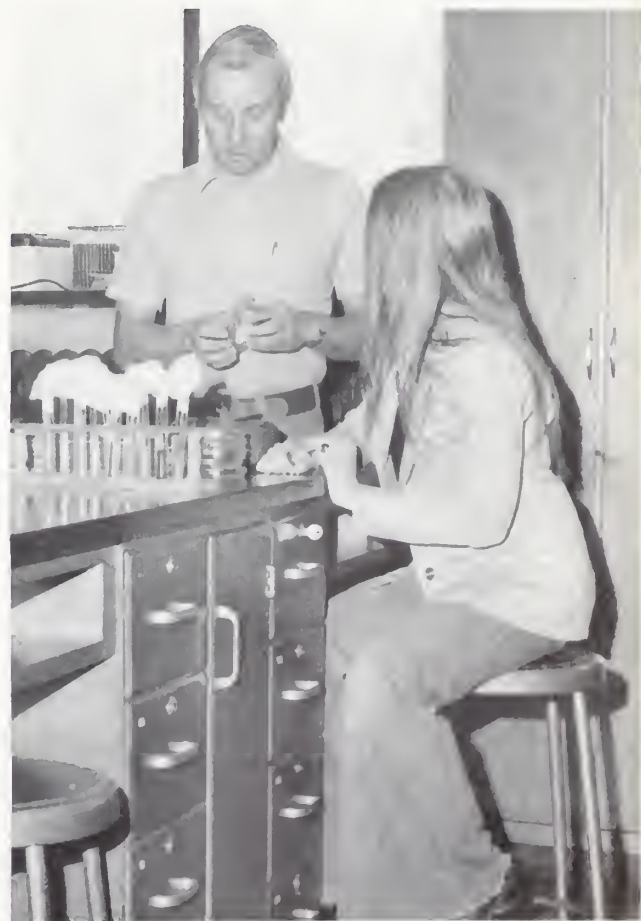

The faculty feels what they are teaching is important because in order to solve a problem we must first understand and know about our subject.

The Zoology classes have added an extra dose of ecology to the curriculum. The department feels this is important so the students are able to make wise decisions on conservation and gain more knowledge about the future.

So if you feel the need to develop a deeper appreciation of the world's natural resources, Tech's Biological Science Department is the place to start.

Tech makes chemists, physicists

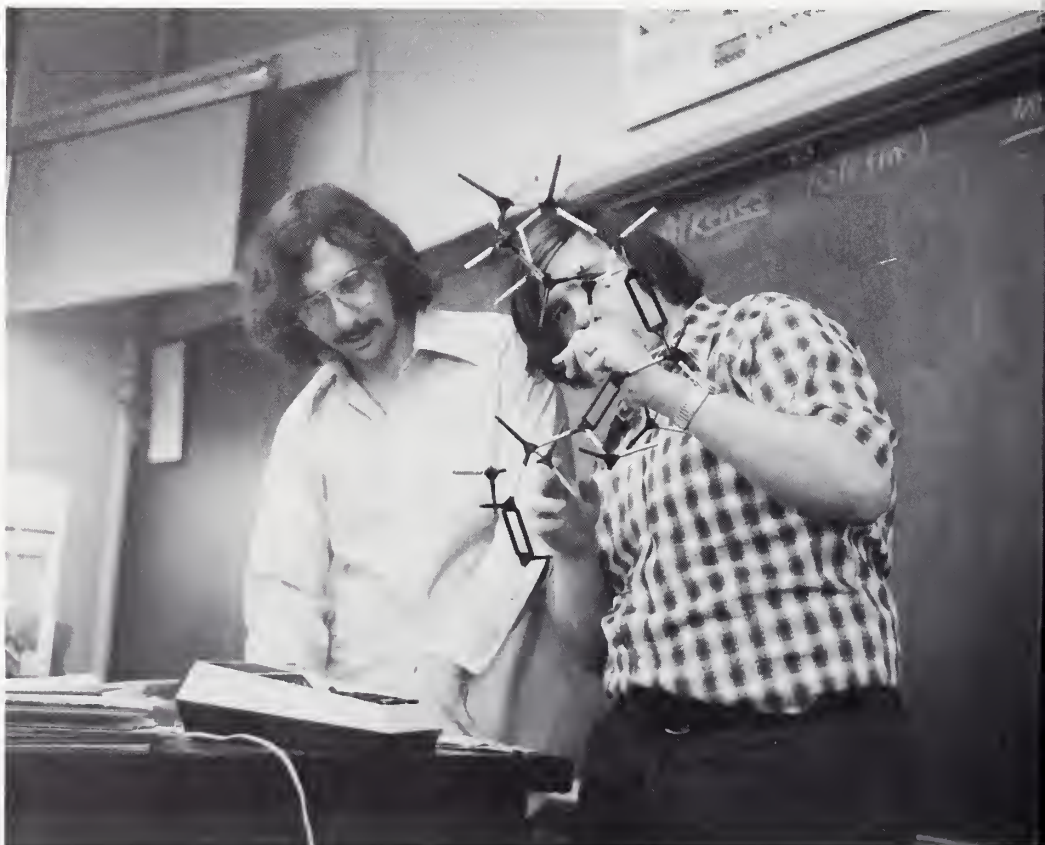

Physical science is an important part of the entire scope of scientific knowledge. Included in the Physical Science Department at Tech are not only the basic courses—Earth Science and Basic Physical Science—but the three specialized courses of Chemistry, Physics, and Advanced Chemistry. All classes offer students the opportunity to expand their concepts of modern-day technology.

Experiments play a large part in learning the physical properties basic to a scientific knowledge, and through these students have ample time to discover "how things work."

The Physical Science Department, headed by Louis D. Allen, subscribes to over ten scientific magazines and journals, and keeping up-to-date is one of the precepts of the departmental staff.

"SEE, you do it this way," says David Berry to fellow senior Delois Phillips.

ADVANCED Chemistry is easy—just ask students Bob Stafford and Dave Reneau.

Chess remains popular, Chem-Phys active, too

"Pawn to king-four . . ." and so begins the chess match between Bobby Fischer and Boris Spasky? Elsewhere in the world maybe, but at Tech it signals the opening of a match between the chess-masters of the Tech Chess Club and those of an opposing school.

The Club, sponsored by John Kern of the Physical Science Department, played an average of two matches a month, and its members continually played each other in order to prepare. The number one spot at Tech constantly changed hands, as members competed to claim the honor.

The Chemistry-Physics Club, sponsored by James May again this year, provided students with interesting and varied ways to learn more about science, themselves, and the world around them. Club membership rose, compared to last year, and students enjoyed performing some of the experiments described in the magazine "Scientific American."

Business Ed. Department adds IOL

Want to be prepared for the business world? Of course many young people do! Tech's Business Department prepares pupils for any career from smart shopper to accountant or computer operations expert. Tech offered 24 exciting business classes, and the choice is one's own.

The Intensive Office Laboratory, Tech's newest addition, was completed just this year. This class was for seniors only, and helped them perfect their raw business skills. It was designed to be as much like a business office as possible, and a business-like atmosphere was maintained at (nearly) all times. Other special classes offered are COE, Computer Programming I and II. All of these make up the Office Education Association, the pride of the Business Education Department.

If a student cannot decide what career is wanted, he can take several business classes, and choose the one most interesting.

Business Ed. offers variety of programs

Cooperative Office Education is a program that enables senior students to train at training stations throughout the Indianapolis business area, and get a credit for the experience. These training stations are various business offices where the COE student is taught office techniques, and is employed part-time after school.

This year COE acquired a new coordinator, or advisor, Mrs. Marjorie Parker. She helps the girls improve their skills, and helps them with any problem they might have. "This is more than just a two-credit class. It is a fellowship," she said. "We must help each other and work together. This is a cooperative program." The girls all agree that Mrs. Parker's smiling face and wise words help them through even the roughest times.

In October, they had a "get-together" with the students' parents to inform them of anything they might want to know about the program. Mrs. Parker said that "this was a huge success, I was really pleased with it. Most people did not understand this wonderful program."

They also had a small gift exchange at Christmas and the annual Employer-Employee Banquet.

Distributive Education is a program designed to prepare a student for a career in merchandising and marketing. This is achieved by senior students being placed on a job in nearby businesses. They get a credit for this training, and another for the related class. In the related class Mrs. Delsie Shoemaker, sponsor, helps students with problems they might encounter on the job. Juniors are also in the DECA program, but do not have jobs.

Girls and fellas, too, if you are interested in office work or merchandising, COE and DE are alive and welcome you!

Industrial Cooperative Training is on-the-job experience, which helps prepare students for the "outside" business world. The students in this program may want to be secretaries, or factory-workers. They work at least 15 hours a week, but not more than 25 hours. Mr. Ernest Holmes is the sponsor and works beyond the time given to him to coordinate this group.

Although most of these students do not plan to go to college, they already have a "head-start" with the careers they have begun.

Office Education Association is a club consisting of businessmen, teachers, and students who have acquired business skills and decided they want to have an office career. Students in this program come from programs such as IOL, COE, and Computer Programming I-IV. The sponsors from these clubs and students make OEA a large and prosperous organization.

OEA members not only helped themselves; they helped others in the community. At Thanksgiving, they "adopted" a needy family and provided them with food for a Thanksgiving feast. At Christmas, they gave toys to needy children, via the Indianapolis Insurance Company. OEA is a good example that Tech cares!

Paying jobs await Career Center pupils

Juniors! seniors! The business world awaits you. IPSCEC has now completed its second year, and is looking forward to those yet to come. "We feel that every student should have the opportunity to learn a trade before graduation," stated Ithel Shoemaker, director of IPSCEC.

Students from outside schools such as Howe, Manual, Northwest and Attucks are enrolled in IPSCEC on the Tech Campus. Many of the students in class now have already received jobs in offices, shopping centers, and restaurants.

Courses include auto-aviation, building trades, drafting, electrical trades, metal trades, printing, commercial food preparation and data processing.

Graphic Communications—where would we be without it?

Commonly referred to as printing, this dynamic field was constantly changing and progressing during Tech's second year with the Career Center. In Tech's Print Shop, students were able to choose any class from composition to Linotype. Pupils from all over the city came to learn in Tech's shop classes. Many schools did not offer the variety of classes offered at Tech.

Tech offered two new night school courses, beginning in January, for re-training journeymen as well as apprentices for more advanced techniques. Other classes offered in Graphics were cold-type, offset, camera, print-design, letter press, bindery, and Ludlow.

Pupils find drafting basic to production

All things must start from scratch; car, bike, cycle, or even tricycle was once a series of lines and scribbles. Nearly every item you can name was once a design on a piece of paper, and many of their designers have started in classes similar to those offered here at Tech in the Drafting Department.

Machine and architectural drafting prepared young men, as well as young women, for a career as key members of an engineering or architectural team.

Electrical shops put technical know-how to work

Tech's Electrical Trades Department has classes in electricity, radio and television, electronics, air conditioning, heating and refrigeration.

The purpose is to prepare students for jobs in their respective fields.

During the course of the year pupils tear down, rebuild and analyze any electrical device in general use.

Vocational Industrial Clubs of America held their competition at Tech. Tech students won several first places.

Metal trades spark interest . . .

Aside from the many Tech students enrolled, our Metal Trades department attracted pupils from many other high schools. Why? Tech is the only high school in the city that offered courses in foundry, pattern making and sheet metal. To round out the department, Tech also offered machine shop and welding. The five course areas represent different phases of the industry and the shops were supplied with up-to-date equipment.

What went on in a class? The pupils were encouraged to make useful items of their own choice such as screwdrivers, mail boxes, and candy dishes. But the city of Indianapolis decided to keep Tech extra busy; for two consecutive years the students have been called upon to help prepare Christmas decorations for downtown Indianapolis. They made beautiful eight-foot snow flakes of thin metal tubing to adorn the Monument area and add an extra touch of Christmas spirit to that wintry season.

Circle spectacular aided by building trades

BRUCE PATTERSON and David Gibson lay bricks in Mr. Miessen's Masonry class.

Building Trades played an important part in Tech's two-year-old Career Center. The classes included in this department were Carpentry, Cabinet Making, Masonry, Painting and Decorating, and Plumbing, all of which served as preliminary instruction before apprenticeship. The classes were also co-educational, but it appeared that only one female took advantage of the opportunity.

Among the many activities of the department, Mr. Ray Browne's stagecraft class made eight 15-foot angels, formed by bending and clipping aluminum tubing. They were placed downtown during the Christmas season; this was the first time Tech's Art Department has ever built any of the ornaments used on the Circle. Mr. Browne's class also turned out close to 2,000 pieces of advertising materials through outside request from off-campus organizations.

The Building Trades department at Tech served students from all high schools in learning the fundamentals of an occupation.

Auto, Aviation are where the money is Where the money is? Could be—Auto Mechanics and Aviation are wide open fields for the well-trained individual, and several seem to be interested here at Tech.

This year, there were 378 students enrolled in Engine Systems 1 and 2, which is a two period, one credit class, and two of these students were girls. There were 125 students enrolled in Advanced Aviation, Auto Body and Mechanics, which are four period, two credit classes, and over 700 students enrolled in Introduction to Industry, which is a class open only to freshmen. Stick with it fellas (and gals); it might well pay off!

Tech seniors not prepared? Not so!

For years seniors have had the fear of leaving high school and entering the world of business without the least bit of training or experience.

Then came the Career Center incorporating two programs which trained the students for business in the outside world.

The Commercial Foods course is a four period, two credit class which teaches the student how to work with quantity cookery. This trains him for work in restaurants, hotels and other businesses dealing with the preparation of large quantities of food. The class often prepared the banquets and luncheons served for various guests at Tech and did a very good job.

The business courses affiliated with the Career Center range from Cashiering to Computer Programming.

This year the business department received a new computer and a new course offering. The class is called Intensive Office Lab. It is a three period, two credit class which deals with preparing students for the business world. The new lab was equipped with the most modern equipment available and insured a great educational experience.

House Plan travels on

As the House Plan completes its third year, it seems to be getting more and more popular. The students find that loss cards, schedule changes and other problems or conflicts are more quickly and simply solved than those in the office, according to John Miner.

This year the House Plan consisted of about 700 students, 12 teachers, 2 counselors, and John Miner, head of the House Plan.

According to Mr. Miner, the student-teacher relationship is improving. His only regret is that the whole Tech student body can't experience this relationship.

Barn Project has successful third year

As the Barn Project got into its third year, Lewis Marshall, department head, had great hopes for it. According to Mr. Marshall the student attendance improved by at least six percent over the last year.

The purpose of the Barn Project is to prevent dropouts. The students in the Project are hand-picked and then included by their own choice.

The program is on a four period basis. During this time the pupils have one class in Related Information and the other time is spent in production classes.

The products manufactured in the Project were student I.D. cards, jewelry boxes, name plates, ROTC name tags, rubber stamps, book racks, book cases, and Christmas wreaths.

Women liberated— Men enroll in Home Ec

This year held surprises for the boys at Tech as all-male home economics classes were offered to them for the first time. There were only two classes of boys, but in the near future the department hopes there will be a lot more. Male Tech Titans need not feel left out; they are welcome to join the world of home-making.

The Home Economics Department has been busy with various activities. Its food classes have been involved in such things as preparing desserts for visitors on College Day.

The department's most popular class is Family Living, offered only to seniors. This class is available to both sexes.

Classes offered by the Home Economics Department include Foods I-IV, Clothing I-IV, Housing and Management, Child Development, Social Arts, Family Living, and Commercial Foods.

Groups find identities in varied interests

Among the groups participating in action programs, one was a newcomer. The Curriculum Council, made up of selected students and teachers of the English department, set its task as getting the pupils' point of view into the phase elective program.

New last year, the Girl Scouts continued to expand their program.

Anthropology Club continued to attract members both on and off campus.

Prayer Circle remained the only club to meet daily and begin the day with fellowship and worship. New sponsor for the year was James Easterly.

Competition was the word for the Exercise-in-Knowledge team when they faced Broad Ripple in a battle of wits on television. Tech was disappointed with a 46-36 loss.

Time is golden — Service Club proves it

Tech's Service Club held a membership drive during November, December and January. Their purpose was to enlist those interested in sponsoring events to make Tech an even better school.

During the year, the group sold Homecoming mums and booster buttons, sponsored a spirit slogan contest, and helped with a Valentine Tea.

For Thanksgiving, the members presented a 14 pound turkey to a family in the neighborhood.

Just before Christmas the members traveled to the eastside Americana Nursing Home to decorate for the yuletide season.

Later, in the spring members had their own skating party at United Skates of America.

“Newness” takes back seat in Human Relations, SAO

Lift that bale! Tote that barge! These were the cries of the Student Affairs Organization and Human Relations Council as both groups plunged into the year with new members, new ideas, and new sponsors.

SAO had faculty assistance from returnee Rita Corrado and new sponsors John Hall and William Farrell. The Human Relations Council got under way with new sponsor, Mrs. Lois Csiky, and co-sponsor, Clifton Lovelace.

For SAO members, the year was hurried with sponsorship of various events. Roller skating parties, a 50's dance, (it's becoming an annual thing) and decorating the campus for Christmas were just a few of the activities. A Campus Clean-Up was the most important event of the year, according to President Debbie Rhoads.

Eighth grade orientation talks at School 101 were the first project for the Human Relations Council. Groups of three went to the school and talked about life at Tech in hope that next year's freshman class will be ready to take on the rigors of high school life.

Bringing popular movies to the campus was the next project, and in December the Forum was the setting for the premiere of the mystery feature, WHAT-EVER HAPPENED TO BABY JANE.

The Council, with President Karen Senour, set its goal as trying to make the Human Relations Council more involved and active with the student body.

Both groups enthusiastically set out to make school more interesting. The results of their efforts can be expressed only individually.

Key Club provides Homecoming spectacular

Many worthwhile services were provided by the Key Club this year. They sold tickets for the Indiana Pacers—Denver Rockets basketball game which was held November 29. They received $1.00 off for each ticket sold.

Probably noticeable around town were Christmas seal posters which told that they were put up by members of the Tech Key Club. They assisted in getting and distributing toys for handicapped children in the Toys-to-Tots program, and on November 24 they rang bells for the Salvation Army at K-Mart.

The sponsor, Mr. Arnold Lehman, said of the club's busy year, "We had an increased membership and we were able to aid more in worthwhile services." Speaking of their sponsoring body, the Northeastside Kiwanis Club, Mr. Lehman stated, "It's a joint effort—they help us and we help them."

Tech's ROTC marches on!

Tech's Reserve Officer Training Corps is a great way to get a taste of military life and equality between men and women. This year the number of girls in the freshman class alone was more than any other school has in its whole corps! As a matter of fact, Tech's Girls' Exhibition Drill Team is a trend-setter! They were the first girls' drill team ever to compete with rifles, and they managed to win the first place trophy for the exhibition of their skills.

Tech also has a Boys' Exhibition Drill Team, a Boys' Infantry Regulation Drill Team and the Color Guard which presents the flags at every home game. This year, continuing a tradition, they presented colors at Hinkle Field House during State Basketball Tourney.

So how does a cadet get from private to high-ranking officer? To get a promotion, grades, participation, conduct, and recommendations go before a board consisting of ranking officers. This year the three highest ranking officers for Tech were Battalion Commander C/LTC James West, Battalion Executive Officer C/MAJ Darrel Feltner, and Battalion Sponsor HC/MAJ Sue Harding.

For the second consecutive year, city brigade sponsor, the highest position a girl can hold in ROTC, came from Tech. HC/MAJ Vickie Chalifoux earned the title.

The ROTC participated against other schools at drill meets, Federal Army Inspection in the spring and the Veterans Day Parade.

The major project this year was raising money to get new uniforms for the coeds and promoting social affairs within the organization. Some agenda! But then, it's some corps.

Creativity blends in minds of Tech artists.

This year the Tech Art Department boasted not only the largest number of pupils enrolled in some type of art course, but also the largest faculty in the city of Indianapolis. Approximately 1,100 pupils elected to participate in one of 15 different art courses taught by 10 different teachers.

Commercial art classes, taught by Mr. Ray Browne and Mr. Mike Slover, competed in a Christmas poster contest sponsored by the United States Post Office in which senior Bill Espich placed second.

Mrs. Marsa Storms' Art III class attempted life-size "body" self-portraits. Students were instructed to "do their thing" on large, unrolled sheets of construction paper, and students' efforts appeared quite successful. Mrs. Storm further inspired students when her nine-year-old son posed for Lorena Phemister's Art V and VII class.

Several students in Miss Phemister's Art VII class participated in week-end activities sponsored through the school system. Lon Edison, Patti Wienke, and Dennis Sipf went to the John Herron School of Art through a scholarship program sponsored by Herron to give students the opportunity to advance their skills in painting, drawing, and sculpture. Also Katria Whitfield and Dennis Sipf spent two days at the Gift and Hobby Show demonstrating their artistic talents to the passers-by.

Music groups provide family fun

The main production of the Tech Music Department this year was Rogers and Hammerstein's musical, CAROUSEL. The musical is a tragic story of a drifter who gets married and acquires a family. To provide for his family, he resorts to crime and is killed. The remainder of the musical follows him as he looks down onto his family, wishing he could help out in some way. Hit tunes like "June is Busting Out All Over" gave singers a chance to perform with gusto, and "You'll Never Walk Alone" spelled out moments of pathos.

Auditions brought out about 70 eager volunteers. A dress rehearsal was held in the afternoon. The audience was made up of students from school 101. Night performances were held Friday, March 22, and Saturday, March 23.

Christmas-in-the-Round was another program which involved most of the Music Department. Each music group performed a few pieces related to Christmas. Christmas-in-the-Round brought the spirit of Christmas to many people as a family occasion.

When we sing We do our thing

Techoir started the year with its annual Kick-Off Banquet with plenty of games, songs, and food! The idea of the banquet was to get each member of the choir acquainted with the other members—and the affair was a success!

Then it was time for the work to begin. First, the Techoir learned and rehearsed songs for the taping of the Christmas show which was filmed at the Indianapolis Museum of Art on December 8. Then came "Christmas in the Round," on December 9. Techoir could not go caroling as they had planned because school was closed for two days before Christmas vacation due to the heaviest snowfall in twenty years. But Techoir didn't let the weather get them down—they made up for it by singing at the Methodist Hospital Children's Pavillion in the spring.

After Christmas vacation, the group began learning new selections to perform at state contest, and some selections to sing for pleasure.

Even though everything didn't work out exactly as planned, all in all, Techoir had a good year.

JOHNNY WHITE (Celebrity) is awarded a medallion for his performance at Fulton Jr. High. His perfect score was the highest in the Music Department. He sang from his heart.

Concert clubs learn "Quality, not quantity"

The Girls Concert Club started out on the "bright" foot this year with new formals of beautiful pastel colors. Of course the lovely voices are what really counted, and they showed they could keep the tradition of good music floating about the halls of Tech. This year they made their premiere November 16th, at Open House, and continued performances at Christmas-in-the-Round and the City Wide Music Festival.

The male half (and what many girls believe to be the better half) was comprised of a group of interested young men who simply enjoyed singing. Under the direction of William Tatum, those first and second tenors, basses and baritone voices you heard coming from room 632 the fourth period were those of the Boys' Concert Club, whose membership was rather weak the first semester but increased significantly the second. They, too, attended the City Wide Music Festival, and more than proved that "it's quality, not quantity" that counts.

Despite Gloria Steinheim and Helen Reddy, members of the Boys Octette and Girls Ensemble were still segregated in separate rooms.

The Octette sang their first program of the year at the Marott Hotel with several vocal numbers. Such songs as "Sounds of Silence," "This Guy's in Love" and "Mame" dominated most of the practice hours until the Christmas season brought with it a host of Yuletide music. Christmas programs, a party at director William Tatum's house, and a cold room 632 all combined to bring the group closer together. As the semesters changed and spring came, programs were held here and there, and the year closed with the annual Octette Alumni Banquet.

"The girls are great," said Mrs. Kandi Brown, the new director for the Girls Ensemble. A first year teacher from Indiana Central College, Mrs. Brown accompanied the girls at their various programs on such songs as "The Way of Love," "Mutual Admiration Society" and "Dream On." The Ensemble had a great sound despite the fact they had to break in the new teach!

Sing it—Melodayres live up to name

The Melodayres are really into the "sing" of things this year!

Directed by Mr. William Moon and accompanied by Mrs. Judy Shattuck, the 14 members of the group are continually busy with programs and engagements.

The highlights of the year for this talented group, whose main type of music is madrigal singing and some pop, were the Techoir Kick-off Banquet and the Christmas T.V. show.

In February the Melodayres competed in the city music contest at Ben Davis High School, and then ended a very successful year with their annual Melodayres-Stage Band variety show in the spring.

Fitting right into the "ring" of things, new "teach", Mrs. Kandis Brown directed the Bell Choir in a myriad of programs during the year, climaxed by an appearance on the Channel 8 Midday News. Old members and "rookies" each added his own atmosphere to programs and rehearsals to the now traditional Bell Choir.

Arranging selections and directing the String Ensemble was Mr. Ron Nobles, leading an even larger group than last year. The highlight of the year came when the Ensemble played at the spring wedding of Mr. Nobles to Miss Polly Chapman of the Physical Education Department.

Concert, stage bands liven Tech scene

The '73-'74 school year ushered in some very talented freshman musicians, according to Edward Evans, director of Tech's Concert Band.

The Concert Band, which has a membership of 56 students this year, was a kind of competition grounds for all students interested in making the Symphonic Band.

The students played not only classical,

That's what it would have been like without the help of the Tech Pep Band. This was a completely voluntary group that practiced every Monday and Thursday in order to play at all the home basketball games.

However, this is not the only Tech band that offered musical enjoyment for Tech students. The Tech Stage Band provided the music for many of the dances at Tech, using such popular songs as "Ticket to Ride," "Will it Go Round in Circles," and "Make Me Smile".

Starting their musical year under the direction of Mr. Barricklow, a new set of drums, covered with green and white heads for that "Techish" appearance, and with 16 members, the Stage Band was able to compete in several contests and provide musical enjoyment for many.

Tech's Symphonic Band brought out a new musical sound for the '73-'74 season. The 55-member group, composed of both girls and guys, performed at the downtown grand opening of Stark & Wetzel's new plant, and performed two yuletide pieces as a group at Christmas in the Round in December.

Directed by Lee Barricklow, the band was featured last March in Tech's Spring Concert along with the rest of the Music Department, and in April competed in the Long Ensemble concert.

Practice makes perfect, and this year Tech's Orchestra proved just how true that is. Under the direction of Ron Nobles, the student members attended practice sessions regularly, and this determination and hard work led the orchestra to retain its position as a top-rated high school orchestra.

Performing in many important events throughout the year, the Orchestra entertained family and friends at the annual Christmas in the Round program, and at Vespers at the close of the school year.

Tech's new marching band director, C. Lee Barricklow was faced with two sizable problems. He started the school year later than others, and was unfamiliar with Tech and some Titan traditions. Despite these handicaps, he has done a tremendous job. He has introduced the marching band to several new and exciting songs, and in addition to great halftime shows, Mr. Barricklow enabled the Titan marchers to perform at an Indiana Central pre-game, and halftime show October 20. He was very pleased with this year's marching season, quoting, "I guess I was the most pleased about the Homecoming halftime show. The attitude of the performers was a great asset to the band as a whole. Actually, I have not had any really bad experiences."

Marching means hot sun, long hours, but a lot of pride when a job is well done; Tech has it all together with the new band director, Mr. Barricklow, and his 56 talented musicians.

Ah, yes! They were back again this year, those tingling twenty Titanettes!

With co-captains Kathy Jo Miller and Jan Berry out in front, the Titanettes performed with the band at every football game and at special events. They performed at Indiana Central College, represented the United States at an International Festival at the State Fairgrounds, participated in the Veteran's Day Parade, and also the 1974 Indianapolis 500 Mile Race Parade.

Along with putting extra time in summer band practice and after-school practices, six of the Titanettes attended Smith-Walbridge Majorette camp for one week. They were Julie Lewis, Doreen Martin, Renetta Constantine, Kristie McKee and co-captains Kathy and Jan.

The girls worked very hard and succeeded in bringing back new ideas to the corps.

The new idea of a pom-pom corps under the direction of Kathy, and a twirling corps under the direction of Jan, gave each group something extra special to work for.

Sponsor Sheila Sullivan coached the girls on poise, gracefulness, and, above all, smiling.

1973 Varsity trackmen claim City Title again!

For the sixth consecutive year, the Varsity Track Team attained the City Champ title. Headliners in winning the record, Carl Jones took the individual city title in high hurdles, Sam Elmore in discus and Larry Wilkerson in long jump.

In state competition, Greg Bell qualified in the mile event.

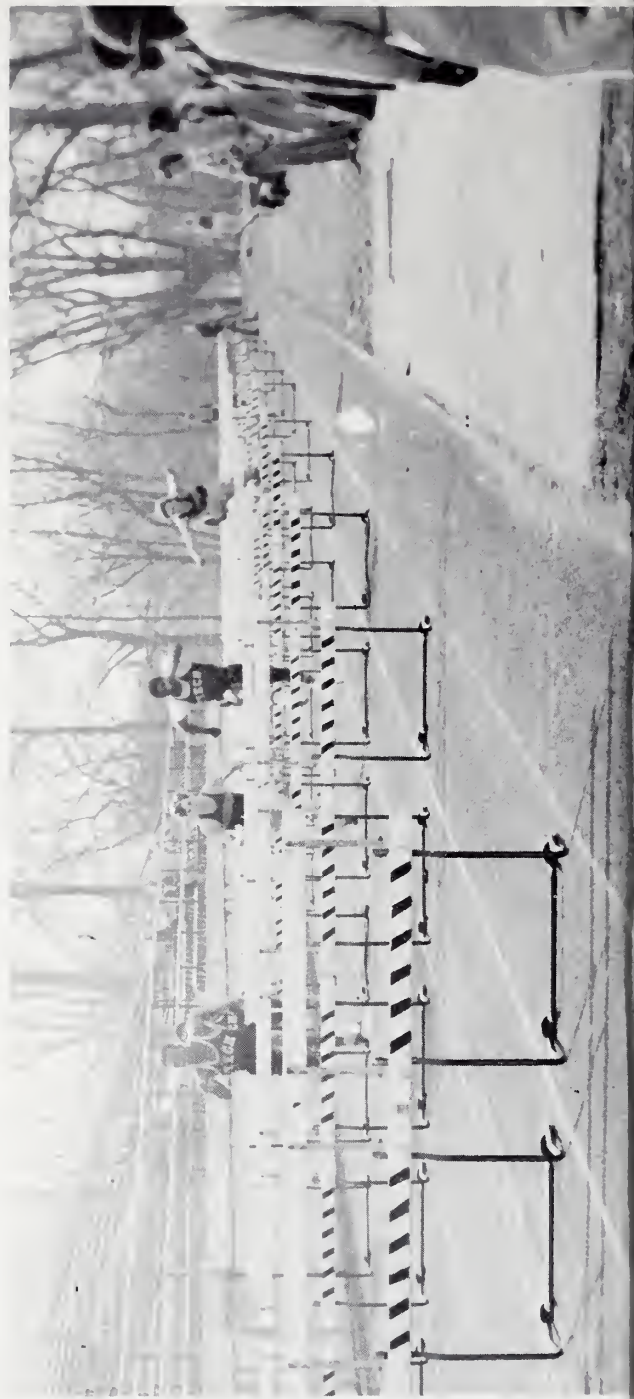

In the two-mile relay, Greg Bell, Jeff Lingenfelter, Douglas Dickson and Darrell Williams established a school record.

Team co-captains Carl Jones and Larry Wilkerson were honored as most valuable track performer and most valuable field performer respectively.

Track reserves take honors, freshmen break city records

Undeclared in the 1973 season, the Reserve Track Team took honors in the 440 yard dash, hurdles, 100 yard dash and the mile run.

George Pintano divided his time between reserve and varsity, running the 440 in 52 seconds. In the hurdles, Jerry Hill was a headliner at 15.9 seconds in both freshman and reserve events. Anton McGill did his thing in the 100 yard dash, and John Halbert was outstanding in the mile run. Denny Lambert and Tim Brown handled both mile and two mile events with speed and endurance.

Freshman Track Team had a repeat this year of last year's record with an undefeated season and a city championship. Freshmen are proud of six of their teammates breaking city records. These record holders are John Brinkley, winning the high jump with the height of 5'11.5"; Jerry Hill, winning the high hurdles with a time of 15.9 seconds; and the half mile relay team with a winning time of 1:35.9.

A spirited effort by Titan baseball players resulted in an even .500 mark in play this year. Although it took a united effort by all the team members, slugging Grady Hardiman has to be singled out as the main weapon against opposing teams throughout the season. Regarded as one of the most well rounded players in the state, Grady graduates from the team as one of the real superstars in Titan history!

After pounding their way into city tourney play, the Titans demolished two opponents before finally being stopped by Chatard.

The team suffered a disappointing loss at the hands of Howe in their first game of sectional play.

The vastly improved reserve team battled their way to a 6-4 season under the supervision of Coach David George.

A recent addition to baseball at Tech has been the formation of a freshman team. Though the frosh were anxious to prove themselves, they played only two games this year. They lost to Howe 13-9 and were also defeated by Marshall 6-5.

Golfers placed eleventh in the city, and twelfth in the sectionals. Phil Cook set the pace by winning the most valuable golfer award, and others followed by contributing their time and talents to the Titan Golf Team. Coach Kleine says the outlook is good for the 1974 season.

Young tennis team is 6-5

Despite having young and inexperienced players making up a large portion of the squad, Coach Don Robinson's tennis team posted a 6-5 record for the regular season. They finished fourth in the city and sixth in the sectional tournament.

The squad was led by powerful Gary Davis. Gary was runner-up at the number one singles in the city tournament, and he also reached the semi-final round of sectional play before finally succumbing to an opponent. Pat Amato also chipped in a great deal for the Titan cause, posting a 7-4 record for the regular season.

Coach Robinson had plenty of praise for his hard working crew, and is very optimistic about next season. He expects to have a very solid team after losing only two seniors; also he expects great accomplishments from Davis, who in Coach Robinson's words "is a potential state champ with hard work and dedication."

BYRON STEPHENS gives his tennis serve all he's got.

One more mile, and one more mile, and . . .

"Take your mark"—my brain is whirring. I must have a steady, even pace—I must get a good start, but not too fast—I must stay out of everyone's way—I wish I could remember this course better—I hope I place good—Oh no the gun is going off! Slow down, heart, wow—my hands have stopped shaking, and my blood has started flowing again. I'm free—Boy, this course is long—I hope that twinge in my legs doesn't get much worse—Athletes are supposed to get a second wind—wonder where mine is? I don't think I'll make it. I wonder why my legs keep moving, they surely don't want to. The straightaway! My legs aren't as tired, I can breathe. I've got to go faster. I can make it!

These are some of the things going through a runners mind, as told by a runner himself, during a race. It's no wonder Tech's varsity and reserve cross country teams had a exciting season.

Freshman cross country runners tried their skill on the mile and a half course and took the city title. Mike Greene, though a freshman, distinguished himself as the top runner and so leaped in one season to varsity standing.

Washington provided the greatest challenge, handled by second place finisher Brant Helm. Bob Pinkerton, third man, was out the last of the season with a foot injury suffered in practice.

Inexperienced varsity gridders have difficult season

Led by a spirited new head coach, Tech's varsity gridders put up quite a fight, but could not manage more than a 3-7 season.

Under the direction of first year head coach Willie Martin, the undersized and inexperienced team had a variety of difficulties which challenged them throughout the season. With only five returning lettermen and a handful of seniors to lead the team, the coaching staff faced a very difficult task.

Despite the rigorous training that began in the middle of August, the Titans lost their first three games before finally getting themselves together and beating Wood. Next came the highlight of the season, a 13-12 upset victory over highly rated and previously unbeaten Secцина. The team couldn't keep on the winning track, however, and lost the remainder of their games except for a victory over Attucks.

Though it may not appear so, the defensive squad did a good job all year but couldn't get any help from the error-prone offensive squad.

The coaching staff is very optimistic about Tech's future football teams. Next year they expect a large number of returning players that could comprise a strong nucleus for a winning team. The outlook for future football teams is definitely looking brighter.

Frosh team falls one game short of third straight city title

Though coaches Melvin Bowers and Ivan Moreman fell short of winning a third straight city title, they still managed to piece together another brilliant freshman team.

The team's only setback was a disappointing loss to Secцина. They were also tied by Arlington.

The coaches try to instill a tremendous feeling of pride and desire in their young players. Team spirit and team unity were constantly emphasized throughout the season. Though they might be awkward freshmen, on the field they were very agile and hard-hitting.

Coach Bowers sums up his winning formula by saying, "The game is 80% spirit and 20% knowing what to do."

Coach John Hurrle's reserve gridders battled to a 3-5-1 overall record in a season that contained several close and disappointing losses.

The players had a difficult time in getting unified as a team. They had to practice with the varsity players throughout the season because of a reduction in the size of the coaching staff.

Many of the reserves also dressed for varsity competition, and will be of great value for next year's varsity team.

'74 City Tourney conquered by Titans

The varsity team had one of their best seasons in years. Not only did they win many games, they also took the city championship.

In the championship game they played tough Washington, who had already knocked many teams out of the tourney. The game started out with the Continentals taking an 8 to 2 lead. Coach Ernest Cline took time out and when his troops went back onto the floor they caught up and took a lead that they never lost. At the end of the first quarter, the score was 24 to 14 in Tech's favor. The game progressed on and at the half Tech led 47 to 24. In the locker room, Mr. Cline inspired his boys again and when they came out they started to build that lead up, but suddenly lost control of themselves and the lead fell down to 60 to 45. That's the closest Washington ever got, though, because at the end of the third quarter it was Tech 66, Washington 45. In the fourth quarter, Tech played show-down ball and held their lead to the end of the game, taking home Tech's first city title since 1960. The final score was Tech 82, Washington 65.

Terrific Titans Triumph Again

The Reserve Basketball team got off to a magnificent start this season, winning their first sixteen games before finally losing to Broad Ripple. Included in those victories was the city championship.

The reserves trimmed Howe, Marshall, and Attacks before going into the final game against Arlington. In that game, the reserves got off to a 4 to 0 lead. Then Coach Ed McDowell got his team moving. They tied the score and then took the lead which they never lost. A key factor was the strong rebounding at both ends and the defense. Good shooting from the field and from the free throw line proved valuable for the Reserves also. In the second half, Tech stormed off to a devastating third quarter that put Arlington away and also gave Tech their city reserve title. The final score was 65 to 51, the Titans triumphing once again.

Freshmen follow in varsity footsteps

While the Varsity team was having one of their best seasons in a long time, the Freshman team wasn't doing quite so badly itself.

Although they had many close games, one of the closest was against Attucks. It started out as a nip and tuck ball game. Tech slowly built up a lead, but at the half they were ahead by only 4 points.

Coach Dave George tried to get his troops moving again, but they just couldn't keep up that lead. In the fourth quarter, Tech suddenly found themselves digging out of their hole. They managed to tie at 47-47 regular time, but at overtime, Tech scored 11 points to Attucks 2 and took the exciting victory to 58 to 49. It was some game!

Matmen take sectional crown

After losing several talented seniors a year ago, head coach John Hurrle still found the key to developing yet another successful Varsity Wrestling Team. Heavyweight Robin Whisman swept first place honors in the city tournament, while teammates James Edwards and Danny Engram both managed fourth place finishes in the competition. There should be a strong nucleus for another successful team next year, as Coach Hurrle will have many tough underclassmen returning.

Reserve wrestlers grappled their way through a 4-4 season. Though the team usually is made up of juniors and seniors, this year, half the members were freshmen. Their purpose was to prepare for action on the varsity team.

In the judgment of Willie Martin, coach, Doug Sims showed the most improvement with Tom Lee, Glen Smith and Andrew Fowlkes making names for themselves. Outstanding in the heavyweight class were John Halliburton and Dean Clem.

First-year coach Francis Knue pushed and prodded his freshman grapplers into compiling a 5-2 season record and a fifth place finish in city competition. Tom Lee, an outstanding individual all year, was the Titans' lone city champ, but he had back-up help from Andrew Foulkes and Richard Johnson who both placed second in the tourney.

Volleyball, hiking, bowling make life lively

A 7-3 record for the season was not bad for the Girls' Volleyball team, considering this is only their second year in competition. The team had a few problems this year with grades and eligibility, but overcame them to go on to a winning season.

According to their coach, Mrs. Mary Lou Manka, the team's strong points were good volleying and serving. A few outstanding players all-around were Pat Wilson, Lovie Sykes, and Francis Williams.

"The fine turn-out of all the freshmen this year points toward a strong team next year," commented Mrs. Manka.

This year's bowling team, consisting of approximately 42 members, got off to a roaring start with Mike Perry as their sponsor for the third year.

The teams of three members competed with each other. Captains of the top teams were Dwight Peavey, Hascall Shafer, Mike Emery, and Mike Surenkamp.

The team met each Tuesday at 4:00 at Bowl-a-Mat in Twin-Aire Shopping Center. The club members' scores ranged from an average of 80 to 180 points a game. (Mr. Perry refused to give his score on the grounds that it might incriminate him.)

At the end of the season, trophies were awarded to teams and individual members. Among there were trophies for sportsmanship, most-improved bowler, and highest over-all average. At the half-way mark, the top bowlers were Theresa Sovern, Mike Emery, and Bernie Kahl. Debbie Peavey, Robert Hood, Mike Emery, Chris Staples, and Delbert Brinson planned to attend the ABC Tournament.

Mr. Perry thinks the team is a good way to have fun with friends. He wants to encourage more Tech students to join.

Hiking and Ecology Club members enjoyed enjoying nature this year under the sponsorship of John Williams.

The group, formed especially to get students interested in nature and ecology, included "spelunking" in their annual schedule. Spelunking, better known to amateurs as simply "exploring caves," allowed newcomers to the club—and "old timers" too—a chance to be adventurous.

Students also found adventure and fun through hiking on week-ends, and taking in the beauty of many Indiana State Parks.

We appreciate spirited cheerleaders

2! 4! 6! 8! Who do we appreciate? Our cheerleaders, of course!

This year's girls were chosen, among other things, on appearance, pep, showmanship, and interest. They were chosen by a committee of teachers, athletic coaches, and selected students. The Freshman Cheerleaders were chosen on the same points by the Varsity and Reserve Cheerleaders.

This year's new sponsor, Eileen Kohut, pointed out, "Our main purpose is to get more spirit for the school."

Four of the Varsity Cheerleaders attended Vincennes University Cheerleading Camp for one week during the summer. Cathy Stuck, Kim Harbin, Dianne Cornforth, and Jeannie Crouch worked extra hard to perfect new cheers to bring back to the rest of the girls. They also were the proud winners of the 'Spirit Stick'. This was after Dianne Cornforth and Jeannie Crouch locked themselves in their room unintentionally, and ended up dragging a locksmith out of bed at midnight!

Varsity captain Cathy Stuck mentioned how well the girls got along together. They all seemed to agree and had the same ideas for 'rousing the crowd.

Fun's the thing! P.E. classes let off steam

HOP to it, girls!

Frustrated, tired, nursing a grouch? Boys' and girls' physical education classes offer a chance to let off steam and have some fun. Bored? Try the competition of a game of ping-pong or shuffleboard. Or pitch horseshoes. Try your skill at tournament play. This is the story of physical education this year—building healthy bodies and boosting morale, according to James Leap, department head.

Shirley Parrett, supervisor for the girls' division, said girls, too, have fun competing in outdoor events in the spring and in volleyball in the winter.

Sometimes classes learn dance steps set to music, with emphasis on rhythm and grace. Life, after all can be beautiful!

Nineteen hundred and seventy-four has been a year we seniors adore.
Our last year of games
to win or lose,
Obeying nicely or
rejecting new rules.
Taking of pictures and receiving our proofs,
That's how it is—the photographer goofs.
Rags now left over from Sadie Hawkins Day

We store in life's treasure forever to stay.
The days how they flew from bells to chimes
My how they pass when we're having good times.
The speeches at Vespers—they showed us the way.
Commencement—at last
a sad-happy day.
The Prom summed it up for evermore.
We'll never forget you

Fill my head with history,
Math and English
too.
But before you begin,
There's something
you should do.
Think twice before
you teach me
Something I should know,
Because the way
I'm taught
Is the way that I will grow.

Girls Basketball marks first for Tech

Girls' athletics at Tech have expanded once again with the newly formed Girls Basketball team.

The team consists of 14 members, and is sponsored by Mrs. Judy Feigert and coached by Henry Whitesell, both of the English Department.

The girls practiced every night after school, except on Fridays or on nights when a game was scheduled.

Tryouts for the team produced a good turn-out, and the prognosis for next year's team shows a lot of potential in the underclassmen who made up the majority of this year's team.

"WHERE DID IT GO?" team members from Tech and Marshall seem to be thinking.

LOVIE SYKES puts it up and over for two more points.

It's all in a year's work . . .

Making a yearbook is like taking a tiger by the tail. Once you lay hold of it, you don't dare let go.

Senior picture scheduling began late in May, 1973, with Kevin Hook, Kris Weber, Cathy Stuck, Marianne Hardester, and Larry Yarrell giving up their lunch periods for a week to get the job done.

The yearbook staff rejected photographers' bids that required each senior to pay a sitting fee. We insisted every senior be photographed free of charge. (Over a hundred did not avail themselves of the privilege.) A few qualified for graduation too late to be included in the book. For this we are truly sorry.

Yearbook making includes the following:

PAGES MUST BE PLANNED at the beginning of the fall semester and mailed at separate deadlines in November, December, January, and February, with proof corrections in March and April.

A THEME MUST BE CONCEIVED. Charles Alexander designed the art work, and we built our theme from there.

PHOTOS MUST BE TAKEN. All color had to be sent to the publisher no later than November, 1973, as color processing takes time, and incidentally, is quite expensive. Robert Stafford took one of the color shots, and much of the other color is by Ivan Christensen, a Tech grad and former yearbook photographer. The title "photographer of the year" should go to Frank LaFara.

ADS MUST BE SOLD. These sales increase the budget by about $1,000. Incidentally, the yearbook does not plan to show a profit. Larry Yarrell, as ad manager, and Phil Carbin as assistant sold most of the ads—a tremendous job, even for two active salesmen.

THEME COPY MUST BE WRITTEN. This year we are fortunate to have poetry—most of it composed by yearbook staffer Mary Wheeler, with Kris Weber writing page one and Lon Edison, Kris, and Mary composing the closing copy.

DEADLINES MUST BE MET. Charlotte Alexander selected the pages to be sent at each mailing, assigned the work to be done and persisted in seeing the work of photographers, reporters, and layout editors completed.

layout ideas and special effects in the opening section. His enthusiasm and creative ideas, constantly pumped into the book, set a pace for the rest of us. Charles Alexander gave his fine touch to art, layout and hand typesetting.

NEWS COPY MUST BE WRITTEN AND EDITED. Every staffer had a "beat" to cover, with Cindy Kitchens and Kris helping with rewrite.

ALL COPY MUST BE TYPED. Thank heaven for the Business Ed training of Cindy, Bobbie Bandy, Charlotte, Charles, Lon, Cathy Stuck, and Kevin.

SPORTS MUST BE COVERED. Brad Witsman took over this section, aided by sports writer Ralph Howard. Lon designed the new vertical layout.

AN INDEX MUST BE MADE. Have you learned the five ways to spell Deborah? Are you aware of the nicknames and aliases people go by? Marianne Hardester kept track of them all.

THE WHOLE JOB MUST BE LEARNED BY DOING. We all learned a lot, and here we are, named in our very own masthead, and with a grand HOLA to all!

In Memory...

One day, so lost among the others, we looked around and for one fleeting moment saw each face as a profile of its own reflection, heard every word on a different pitch, and finally came to realize the clock of time was no longer behind us.

To the extent of things, we did whatever we could to please ourselves. A Friday night game served as a meeting place for friends. Afterwards some went to the Pizza Hut, and others went home, not necessarily by the seemingly ridiculous 11:00 P.M. curfew. Guys still took girls to movies. We saw such flicks as THE WAY WE WERE, PAPILLON, THE STING, AMERICAN GRAFFITI, JONATHAN LIVINGSTON SEAGULL, PAPER MOON, WALKING TALL, and the most talked about conversation piece THE EXCORCIST.

Television shows were better than ever—THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF MISS

JANE PITTMAN, THE WALTONS, ALL IN THE FAMILY, SANFORD AND SON, MAUDE, KUNG FU, reruns of STAR TREK, and JOHNNY CARSON.

We got down on some heavy tunes. Living by the lyrics of I'VE GOT A NAME and TIME IN A BOTTLE by Jim Croce; I'LL TAKE YOU THERE, The Staple Singers; PHOTOGRAPH and YOU'RE SIXTEEN by Ringo Starr; LOVE'S THEME, Love Unlimited; LIVIN' JUST ENOUGH FOR THE CITY, Stevie Wonder. Other hit tunes were KODACHROME, Paul Simon; ROCK N' ROLL BABY, Stylistics; I'M HOOKED ON A FEELING, Blue Suede; LAST TIME I SAW HIM, Diana Ross; I'VE GOT TO USE MY IMAGINATION; Gladys Knight; JUNGLE BOOGIE, Cool In The Gang; KEEP ON TRUCKIN, Eddie Kendricks; WE MAY NEVER PASS THIS WAY AGAIN, Seals and Crofts.

We, along with students in the hundreds of schools across the nation, need to recall the outside influences which have affected our lives, as well as the experiences we have had in our four years of campus life.

We should all know by now our lives cannot be encircled by four corners of a classroom because life expands farther than that.

Through the corridors and halls familiar words such as Nixon, Agnew, and Ford were somehow related to Watergate, bugging, tape erasing, impeachment, and resignation . . . Others had thought of hope.

Democracy, our rights and everyday freedoms, law and order, Kissinger, the Mideast, whispers of peace, Brezhnev . . . names, places, and ideas that crept in and about our daily conversations.

How about our dollar? That equals economy, gas rationing. Prices climbed stealthily up; one could say that the definition of "up" is clearly a one-track direction.

From social acceptance to physical need, cigarettes, alcohol, and drugs were still an issue of legalization. Although anyone could walk into a store and buy a pack of cigarettes, it was technically illegal for anyone under the age of 18 to purchase these. Still those under 21 could not drink.

Drugs were a different situation. Knowing the right connection, anyone could purchase a capsule full of ups or downs. School, jobs, and home relationships were a few excuses used for the need of these. Such was our world of decisions.

Two colors Black and White, still trying to get it together; mix them together and it equals one, man as a whole.

Making love, a beautiful experience for two people. The word pregnancy was heard, even abortion. It's legal now, just as a lot of things are.

Right or wrong? It's found in the law of our land, our government. They make up the laws, but who are they? And in return, who are we? Basically the decision is ours! It is in our principles to instinctively determine the bad and good. The two become a tug of war.

The answer? Who's to say? Interests and ideas may conflict between people. Maybe understanding is the key . . .

On February 22, 1974, the Tech Campus was invaded by hundreds of creatures dressed in the most bizarre apparel ever seen. There was no need for alarm—they weren't aliens from Mars or some other planet just having landed in a U.F.O.—they were merely '74 Seniors in the latest edition of a Tech tradition. That one-and-only Sadie Hawkins Day!

What was Sadie Hawkins Day and what was it like? Well, it was fun . . . exciting . . . slightly crazy . . . and it was part of being a Senior. And just for those who were either new to Tech or who have spent the past few years in Hibernation, here's how Sadie Hawkins Day of 1974 unfolded before their eyes.

Seniors donned their best rags for a day of unlimited lunacy. Lil' Abner and Mammy Yokim would have been proud of those kooky costumed characters who were found acting very lively and carefree at the Sadie Hawkins Day Dance held in the Cafeteria. But even that wasn't all—still more of those mimicking the citizens of Dogpatch U.S.A. appeared at the Sadie Hawkins Game which as always, marked the end of Tech's home basketball games for the season. It was also one game when many Titan fans REALLY stood out in the crowd!!!
